

Elinor Glenn Scholarship Fund

We have named our Scholarship Fund to honor Elinor Glenn, who was a trailblazer for long term care worker rights and women's rights. We are proud to honor her efforts with a Scholarship Fund that was started with generous funding from SEIU ULTCW and is now continued by SEIU 2015. As the first woman to be hired as an Organizer by SEIU, she was a pioneer in organizing the public sector well before they had collective bargaining rights. She built her own union, SEIU Local 434 in Los Angeles, from 700 to 7,000 members and led the first strike of County workers to protect wages and seniority rights. That Union led to the incubation and nursing of SEIU Local 434B which was led by Ophelia McFadden. Prior to that Elinor Glenn hired Ophelia McFadden as a Staff Representative in 1968 and encouraged her leadership. Her role in helping to elevate the modern home care workers movement will remain among Elinor Glenn's proudest moments. SEIU Local 434B later became ULTCW, and now SEIU 2015.

Eligibility

Elinor Glenn Scholarship is open to Long Term Care workers and their immediate families as set forth here.

1. The qualifying caregiver must have at least one year of continuous employment as a long term care workers in any of the 49 counties represented by SEIU Local 2015 as of May 31, 2017.
2. The caregiver or his/her children, step children, or children as a guardian, and grandchildren are eligible.
3. Applicants must be attending a 4-year University, Grad school program, accredited community college, trade-tech school or online college as of the Fall Semester of the calendar year in which they are applying.
4. Any one individual may only receive this scholarship once.
5. Scholarship awards are limited to one per household, per year.
6. Scholarships will be awarded without regard to sex, race, national origin, sexual orientation, age, or disability of any applicant.

Review Committee will be selected annually from a peer-based group of long term care workers in the counties that are eligible for participation. The CLTCEC Board will vote upon candidates who may self-nominate, or be nominated on their behalf by either an employer or affiliated partner of CLTCEC. For the candidates nominated, the CLTCEC Board will choose 5 scholarship fund applicant reviewers, following the current ethics policy guidelines of the CLTCEC. Reviewers will judge each entry to the Scholarship Fund; grade it per the guidelines.

Guidelines

All three sections of the application will be evaluated and scored. The total possible points any applicant can earn is 50 points. The personal statement will be judged by the review committee based on the applicant's ability to follow the prompt described below. Volunteer activities are evaluated by accuracy of the information provided. Transcripts will be weighed by the applicant's ability to meet the minimum requirements.
